

History and Theory of Planning

Why do we do what we do?

What is planning?

- ⊕ a universal human activity involving the consideration of outcomes before choosing amongst alternatives
- ⊕ a deliberate, self-conscious activity

Primary functions of planning

- ⊕ improve efficiency of outcomes
  - ⊞ optimize
- ⊕ counterbalance market failures
  - ⊞ balance public and private interests
- ⊕ widen the range of choice
  - ⊞ enhance consciousness of decision making
- ⊕ civic engagement
  - ⊞ expand opportunity and understanding in community

What is the role of history and theory in understanding planning?

- ⊕ planning is rooted in applied disciplines
  - ⊠ primary interest in practical problem solving
- ⊕ early planning theories emerged out of practice
  - ⊠ planning codified as a professional activity
  - ⊠ originally transmitted by practitioners via apprenticeships
- ⊕ efforts to develop a coherent theory emerged in the 1950s and 60s
  - ⊠ need to rationalize the interests and activities of planning under conditions of social foment
  - ⊠ the social sciences as a more broadly based interpretive lens

Types of theories

✿ theories of system operations

- ✻ How do cities, regions, communities, etc. work?
  - disciplinary knowledge such as economics and environmental science

✿ theories of system change

- ✻ How might planners act?
  - disciplinary knowledge such as decision theory, political science, and negotiation theory
  - applied disciplines such as public administration and engineering

Progressive Movement as Reform

- ⊗ Reaction against political and economic
  - ❏ influence of corporations; monopolies (Rockefeller)
  - ❏ influence of corrupt ward bosses (Tamany Hall) because of dispersed, decentralized power of elected officials
- ⊗ Loss of control of central cities by elites as democracy spread
  - ❏ elites moving to streetcar suburbs; dislocation of economic and political power
- ⊗ Emergence of corporate models of management
  - ❏ strong executive leadership
- ⊗ Rationalize and professionalize city governance
  - ❏ rationalize city service provision and infrastructure development
  - ❏ civil service
  - ❏ depoliticize city

- ✚ 1954 Housing Act of 1954.
  - ❑ Stressed slum prevention and urban renewal rather than slum clearance and urban redevelopment as in the 1949 act.
  - ❑ stimulated general planning for cities under 25,000 (Section 701)
  - ❑ "701 funding" later extended to foster statewide, interstate, and substate regional planning.
- ✚ 1954 *Berman v. Parker
  - ❑ US Supreme Court upholds DC Redevelopment Land Agency to condemn unsightly, though non-deteriorated, properties in accordance with area redevelopment plan
- ✚ 1964 T.J. Kent publishes The Urban General Plan.

Modernism

✚ aesthetics and form

- ✚ rejected historic precedent as a source of architectural inspiration
- ✚ considered function as the prime generator of form
- ✚ employed materials and technology in an honest way.

✚ morphological characteristics of buildings

- ✚ style-free plan
- ✚ universal space
- ✚ walls freed from the function of load bearing
- ✚ cantilevers
- ✚ glass at corners of buildings
- ✚ use of concrete

Era of Urban Industrialization

- Need for more systematic and forward-thinking action
- Concepts linking planning, research, action
- Imbedded in architecture, engineering, social work

1915

Roaring '20s & Progressive Era

- Planning as a profession and public institution
- Physical determinism: City Beautiful & City Efficient
- Focus on land use & comprehensive analysis

1928

The Depression Era & Urban Stagnation

- Regionalizing/nationalizing of planning
- Social science as a tool of planning
- Focus on econ development & social policy

1945

Post-WWII Modernism Suburbanization & Central City Decline

- Trust in governmental authority
- Modernism, comprehensiveness & rationality

1960

Social Activism, Federal Policy & Regional Cities

- Social science strengthened & challenged
- Planning optimism
- Rise of community voice & social protest
- Political action for reform and transformation

1980

Retreat from Policy Privatization

- Post-modern critique of rationality
- Segmentation of voices of communities into communities with voice
- Focus on interaction, communication, process

Why do we not have a unifying theory of planning? (Rittel and Webber)

- ⊗ goals and objectives, as well as means to achieve them, are often uncertain
  - ⊠ “wicked problems”
  - ⊠ concerned primarily with public issues
    - broadly defined groups/clients
    - diverse interests
- ⊗ planners rarely make decisions but rather advise those who do
- ⊗ results of most planning activity is discernable only 5 to 20 years after the decision
  - ⊠ feedback and corrective actions are difficult

What are “wicked” problems?

- ⊕ A problem for which each attempt to create a solution changes the understanding of the problem.
- ⊕ Wicked problems cannot be solved in linear fashion, because the problem definition evolves as new possible solutions are considered and/or implemented
- ⊕ Not the same as an intractable problem

"One cannot build a freeway to see how it works"

Characteristics of “wicked” problems

- ⊕ No definitive formulation of a wicked problem.
- ⊕ No stopping rule.
- ⊕ Solutions are not true-or-false, but good-or-bad.
- ⊕ No immediate and no ultimate test of a solution.
- ⊕ Every wicked problem is essentially unique.
  - ⊞ all attempts are significant
- ⊕ No enumerable set of potential solutions
- ⊕ Every problem can be considered a symptom of another problem
- ⊕ Can be explained in numerous ways. The choice of explanation determines the nature of the problem's resolution.
- ⊕ The planner has no right to be wrong.

Hard-to-Formalize, Contextualized,
Multidisciplinary, Organizational Knowledge

Rittel, H. J., and M. M. Webber (1984). "Planning problems are wicked problems", In N. Cross (Ed.), Developments in Design Methodology, Wiley, pp. 135-144

For every complex problem
there is a simple solution, and it is wrong.

Cognitive Rationality, Conceptual Basis

- ⊕ A rational decision is one that
  - ⊠ the DM knows what ends the DM seeks
    - the public interest
  - ⊠ the DM considers all the alternatives
  - ⊠ the DM identifies and evaluates all the consequences of each alternative
  - ⊠ the DM selects that alternative with consequences that most probably maximizes the desired ends
- ⊕ Rationality focuses on
  - ⊠ the quality of decision
  - ⊠ the subordination of knowledge to values and of action to knowledge
