Please consider this presentation in the following Connected Communities track *

- TECHNOLOGY – How can communities use new technology to strengthen connectivity, both internally and externally? How will emerging technologies impact our built environment and economy, and how will that impact how we plan? What tools can help us connect better with our community members and engage them in planning in new, interesting ways?
- TRANSPORTATION – Transportation continues to be a hot button topic across the state, but particularly in the Atlanta region. What is the future of our infrastructure? How does transit fit in with emerging technologies, such as connected automated vehicles? What is our progress towards a multi-modal future?
- SOCIAL TIES – One common criticism of digital communications is that it has enabled us to grow apart from each other, and it reduces face-to-face interaction. What can we do as planners and designers to create strong social bonds in our communities? What is working in our public spaces, and what isn't? What sorts of events are successful at bringing out diverse populations, and building ties between groups?
- PARTNERSHIPS – Combining resources—whether it is time, money, or expertise—is often the difference between projects that get built, and others that stay on the books. What are some unique or unlikely partnerships that formed to get a job done? How are we working better together in a competitive funding environment?

How does the session meet the APA CM criteria? *

Each criteria below must be met for session to be approved. Please read all the criteria listed below.

0 of 1000 max characters

APA Certification Maintenance (CM) Criteria:

- are designed to meet a specific planning-related training objective.
- are led by one or more experts on the subject. An expert is a professional who has made a contribution to the profession through practice, teaching, research or publications; completed works that proclaim individuality and mastery of the principles of planning taught; and whose work demonstrates outstanding quality and professionalism.
- are designed to teach subject matter appropriate in depth and scope and at a level beyond a planner with at least two years of professional planning experience.
- are non promotional in nature.
- address demonstrated educational needs.
- communicate a clearly identified educational purpose or objective.
- use learning methodologies and formats that are appropriate to the activity's educational purpose or objectives.
- use evaluation mechanisms to assess an activity's quality and relevance.

For more information on APA CM criteria, please visit www.planning.org.

Description of how the event will meet the Ethics requirement

Presenters must demonstrate that the content of the activity focuses on training planners on the standards of ethical behavior according to the AICP Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct. While general ethics courses, local ethics code, and ethic of codes from other professions can introduce relevant issues as well, the AICP Code focuses on a system of moral principles specific to professional planners.

For more information please reference the CM Provider Handbook located on the APA website at www.planning.org/cm/providers

Description of how the event will meet the Law requirement

Presenters must demonstrate that the content of the activity is related to existing planning laws or case decisions in existing planning laws or case decisions. Political movements, policy recommendations, and policy initiatives are not "current planning law." Existing planning laws or case decisions must clearly constitute a majority of the content of the activity.

For more information please reference the CM Provider Handbook located on the APA website at www.planning.org/cm/providers
